Birth of a dynasty?

The squad has all the ingredients needed for long-term success

OPINION

John Matisz
john.matisz@metronews.ca

They've been checking things off, in green and gold, all season long.

The London Knights have exceeded expectations in 2011-12. From the first puck drop onwards, they've managed to silence critic after critic.

Yours truly made a pre-season prediction they would enter the playoffs as a middle-of-the-pack Western Conference seed.

They were about to ice a group of players whose average age was 17.6 on opening night, so it's safe to say I wasn't alone in thinking the young team would need time to gel and excel.

Opening night proved to be a laugher, though, as they walloped a competitive Saginaw Spirit squad 8-0.

By the numbers

- Number of 21-year-olds on the 25-man roster: 1
- 20-year-olds: 6
- 19-year-olds: 7
- 18-year-olds: 3
- 17-year-olds: 8

Since then, all the checkpoints toward a national title have been crossed off.

Pick up valuable veteran pieces at the deadline without sacrificing the future? Mark Hunter made it happen.

Stay on top of the OHL standings virtually the entire season? The players took care of that.

Run away with the league title in 19 playoff games? Yep, the Knights did that, too.

And now, the biggest checkpoint of all: Capture a second Memorial Cup in seven years. That's set for Sunday.

Most CHL teams, including London, try to peak when their league hosts the Memorial Cup. For the OHL, that's 2014.

But London's expedited success isn't strictly because of the play of future leaders Max Domi and Bo Horvat. The coaching staff have appropriately praised the leadership group of Michael Houser, Jarred Tinordi, Jared Knight and Scott Harrington.

The squad appears to have the framework to become the next major junior-hockey dynasty: Talented up-and-comers learning from a defiant core of veterans.

The Knights have found a formula that can produce a cohesive group in a short time span. Assistant GM Mi-sha Donskov called it "London Knights hockey."

It's a team-first philosophy. Linemates are good friends off the ice, defensive pairings predict each other's every move on the ice. And — let's face it — it's hard to be unhappy with 70 wins in 95 games.

Locals certainly hope there's enough left in the tank for one final win. If any team is capable of finding that extra juice, it's the London Knights.

After all, they've found it again and again.

Feds give funds for pizza plant

The federal government is doling out a $12-million loan to help Dr. Oetker open a pizza-making plant in London.

The money — $10 million from the Federal Economic Development Agency for Southern Ontario and $2 million from Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada — will help the company buy equipment, as well as build a warehouse and distribution centre.

The plant will be built off Highway 401 at Veteran's Memorial Parkway and Bradley Avenue, creating 120 permanent jobs and 198 jobs during construction. It's expected to open in 2014.

Minister of State Gary Goodyear was in London on Thursday to announce the loan. METRO

Restaurants gear up for sidewalk dining

Stepping on the pedal. Downtown London, businesses put a move on patio pilot

It could be a while before fresh-air wining and dining starts as part of a new downtown sidewalk-café program.

Getting city council's blessing on the one-year trial was only the first step in what's expected to be weeks of filing permit applications and creating a patio prototype, said Kathy McLaughlin, program co-ordinator at Downtown London.

An official launch date hasn't been set, but Jambalaya (119 Dundas St.) is expected to be the first restaurant in on the game, featuring a prototype officials want to see others use as a model. Early Bird (355 Talbot St.) will be close on Jambalaya's heels, McLaughlin said.

Six restaurants have shown serious interest, McLaughlin said. Up to 10 businesses can participate.

"We're all looking forward to getting this done," McLaughlin said. "The foot is definitely on the gas pedal now to get some of these built."

The patios will be constructed in parking spaces in front of the businesses. Owners will reimburse the city for lost parking revenue to the tune of $45 for each week the patio is open.

Downtown London wants to make sure the additions breathe a bit of fresh air into the core.

"They have to look professional. They have to look like something that adds to the façade of the businesses," McLaughlin said. "We want to see nicely designed patio spaces with some planter boxes and something that's aesthetically pleasing."

Officials have said the program could be expanded to other parts of the city — like Old East Village — if it's successful.

Many businesses haven't been able to open patios in the past because they take up too much sidewalk space.

Senior care. House calls by doctors part of plan

The Ontario government has outlined the next step in its strategy to keep seniors in their homes longer.

Health Minister Deb Matthews says proposed measures include more house calls by doctors, more access to home care for seniors in need, and special co-ordinators to ensure seniors receive the right care.

It also includes a home-renovation tax credit for seniors to adapt their homes as they get older.

Dr. Samir Sinha, director of geriatrics at Mount Sinai Hospital, will oversee the process.

Matthews says Sinha will hold consultations over the summer and report to the government in the fall on how to best implement the strategy.

The government says older adults make up 14 per cent of Ontario's population and account for nearly half of current health-care spending in the province. THE CANADIAN PRESS

New documents

Ornge running $14.5-million deficit: Tories

The Progressive Conservatives say new documents show Ontario's troubled air-ambulance service is running a $14.5-million deficit.

The documents are dated more than a year ago.

Since then, the government has replaced the board of directors and its former CEO, Chris Mazza, and called in the police to investigate financial irregularities.

Ornge says the board approved a balanced budget for fiscal 2012-13 and Ornge is not asking the Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care for additional funding.

The 2011 documents say Ornge will need a 10.5 per cent funding increase from the government to cover the deficit.

Relief unlikely for water levels

Parched. Dry conditions expected to continue into summer months

angela.mullins@metronews.ca

Recreation on — and life within — the Thames River continues to be at risk in what's shaping up to be the fourth consecutive month of drought-like conditions along the watershed.

The Upper Thames River Conservation Authority has issued multiple low-water advisories in recent months, reporting record-breaking levels for April.

May's report — due out in early June — isn't expected to be any rosier, said Mark Shifflett, the authority's senior water-resources engineer.

"Nothing's really changed," Shifflett said. "It's going to take quite a bit of rain (to recover)."

The problem is becoming fairly obvious at the Forks of the Thames where pronounced portions of the riverbed are exposed. Water levels usually peak in the spring and hit their lowest around September.

Current conditions are "fairly normal for what we would see in late summer," Shifflett said, "which is concerning because it's the wrong time of year."

Rain gauges in the watershed measured 25 to 35 per cent of the typical rainfall last month, which was the driest April in at least a decade, according to Environment Canada records for London.

Through Thursday, about 13 millimetres of precipitation had been recorded for May compared to about 84 millimetres for the same period in 2011.

Low levels in the Thames have a variety of adverse effects, including a greater potential for poor water quality and a chance that spawning fish will be more vulnerable to predators.

Conservation needed

- Londoners are asked to continue conserving water through at least Friday morning as crews fix a line that delivers about 85 per cent of the city's water.
- Avoid baths, washing cars, long showers, watering gardens and laundry.

Budget. McGuinty says NDP's new fast-track demands not part of deal

Premier Dalton McGuinty may be regretting that he didn't sign a budget pre-nup before his "happy marriage" to the NDP.

The New Democrats want to fast-track changes they demanded in exchange for allowing the budget to clear a crucial vote. That would allow the government to stop a planned corporate tax cut on July 1 and hike taxes for the wealthy.

But McGuinty, who had called the agreement a "happy marriage," says that wasn't part of the deal.

The minority Liberals are accusing the NDP of stalling the budget bill and breaking their promise to pass it.

They say the NDP won't see the tax measure implemented in time because the budget has been held up. The NDP says it's not holding anything up and only agreed to let the budget clear its first major hurdle. The party says it's not interested in triggering an election.

Lobbyists act. Integrity commissioner wants review

Ontario's integrity commissioner is calling for a review of what she suggests is an outdated provincial Lobbyists Registration Act.

Lynn Morrison says times have changed since the system was introduced in 1999 and rules need to be updated.

She says there's no formal process in place to investigate complaints and issue penalties.

She says that role should be taken on by her office in its capacity as lobbyists registrar.

She also suggests that all paid lobbyists be forced to register, instead of only those who spend more than 20 per cent of their time lobbying.

Morrison's recommendations come days after allegations that well-placed Liberals lobbied the provincial government on behalf of air-ambulance service Ornge in a bid to keep its financial records under wraps.

Bicycle festival. Events aim to create awareness, excitement about cycling

ANGELA MULLINS
angela.mullins@metronews.ca

Ask Maryanne MacDonald why you should ride a bicycle, and you'll get an earful.

It's good for the environment and your health. It lets you discover hidden gems that can be overlooked from the driver's seat of a car.

"There are so many reasons to be on your bike," said MacDonald, president of the Thames Region Ecological Association (TREA).

Spreading that message is one of the thrusts behind the London Bicycle Festival, which starts Friday. The nearly month-long celebration includes organized rides, tune-up sessions, downtown's Car Free Day and a week of commuter breakfasts at the Covent Garden Market.

The official launch party is a 6:30 p.m. show featuring bicycle-themed art and music at the East Village Arts Co-op (757 Dundas St.). Events continue through June 14.

With help from the city, TREA formed the festival's roots 22 years ago by marking Bike to Work Week.

Since then, the effort's evolved into a full-on campaign aimed at creating awareness about and introducing as many people as possible to the what MacDonald considers the wonders of cycling.

"It's important to understand how (communities) can be sustainable in the future," she said. "Cars are not going to be sustainable ... at least not the way we're using them today."

London Knight Ryan Rupert and Edmonton Oil King Keegan Lowe collide during first-period Memorial Cup action in Shawinigan, Que., on Tuesday. The only comparison Matt and Ryan Rupert of the London Knights will accept with the Vancouver Canucks' Henrik and Daniel Sedin is that they are twins. The similarity stops there, says Ryan.

JACQUES BOISSINOT/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rupert twins double trouble for teams at Memorial Cup

Agitators. Family ties are the only similarities these two share with the Sedins

Matt and Ryan Rupert acknowledge that they do have one thing in common with Vancouver Canucks stars Henrik and Daniel Sedin.

Both sets of siblings are twins.

But the similarity stops there, says Ryan.

"It's not the same style at all," he said. "We're agitators. We like to get under people's skin. They're more finesse players. They use their bodies because they're bigger and they put up more points, but we play a more defensive style."

"Agitator" is an understatement for the five-foot-nine pests, whose edgy style and dedication to work helped the Knights to a 2-1 record in round-robin play at the MasterCard Memorial Cup.

They look very much alike. Matt wears No. 46 and Ryan No. 64. And the 17-year-olds get plenty of ice time playing on the wings with Nashville Predators first-round pick Austin Watson.

Ryan is a little heavier and so far has shown somewhat more offensive capability, but both play the same grinding, grabbing and jabbing style that

The award goes to ...

London Knights goaltender Michael Houser is up for two CHL awards.

- Already named OHL goalie of the year, Houser is nominated for CHL goalie of the year, as well as player of the year.
- Houser was the only London player nominated for the CHL awards, which will be handed out Saturday.

Tourney breakdown

How the London Knights have fared at the 2012 Memorial Cup:

Edmonton Oil Kings 4-1 win

Edmonton's play has been quite the disappointment to educated viewers of the WHL champions. After having their way all year, the Oil Kings have looked very ordinary at the Memorial Cup.

Shawinigan Cataractes 6-2 loss

The only team to defeat the Knights is host team Shawinigan. They're the most inconsistent team at the cup, which isn't surprising considering they had a month off after exiting the QMJHL playoffs early.

Saint John Sea Dogs 5-3 win

Slight favourites heading in, the defending champion Sea Dogs have rebounded nicely. Forward Jonathan Huberdeau has six points in three games so far and, if Saint John makes it to the final, will have something to prove after racking up six costly penalty minutes versus London.

drives opponents crazy.

They fit right in on a defence-first team co-owned by former NHL super-pest Dale Hunter and coached by his brother, Mark. Although they are from the London area, the Ruperts live at Dale's house during the season.

"That's the style that's going to get us where we want to go," said Ryan. "It's been emphasized by our coaches to play that style."

The brothers aren't big guys, and that may work against them at the NHL draft in June. The question is whether they will be selected by the same team, as the Sedins were.

"It would be a bonus to be drafted by the same team," said Ryan.

Chatham-Kent police made an easy arrest after a man allegedly broke into a building, stole a ring and fell asleep before he could make his escape.

Officers responded to a break-and-enter around 10:30 a.m. Wednesday when the owner found a 19-year-old man sleeping inside the building on Wallace Street in Wallaceburg.

According to police, the man forced his way into the building from the back door, causing about $50 in damage, and another $50 from cutting the alarm-system wires.

After searching the man, police found a gold ring that was stolen from a jewelry box in the building and a bag of suspected cocaine.

He's been charged with break and enter, mischief under $5,000, theft under $5,000, possession of property under $5,000 obtained by a crime and drug possession.

Lung-transplant recipient celebrates new lease on life

Inspiring. Hélène Campbell became the face of organ donation after attracting celeb endorsements

A young woman whose inspirational advocacy for organ donation has garnered attention around the world gushed with gratitude Thursday at her first public appearance since receiving two lungs seven weeks ago.

At a news conference, Hélène Campbell did a little happy dance to demonstrate her remarkable recovery from near death.

"I've named my lungs 'Gratitude' — attitude with a little 'grrr,'" Campbell said. "I'm just so grateful."

In the space of six months, Campbell, 21, of Ottawa, went from skydiving and travelling abroad to someone who could barely walk.

She was diagnosed with a degenerative hardening of the lungs — idiopathic cystic fibrosis — a condition of unknown cause that was quickly suffocating her. On April 6, after just 10 weeks on the organ waiting list, she underwent a transplant.

On Thursday, a small scar on her throat and a husky voice were the only obvious signs of her dramatic journey.

"My voice is not fully back — it's a little more raspy than usual, but I have a voice and I'm able to breathe and that for me is a miracle," she said.

"I can take a shower standing up — that is the best thing I've been able to do in a long time."

Campbell became the unofficial face of organ donation in Canada after attracting celebrity endorsements for her cause, including from singer Justin Bieber, whose tweets set the campaign alight, and TV host Ellen DeGeneres.

The response has been a significant increase in people signing up to be organ donors in places as far-flung as Louisiana and Australia.

"It just took the right story to get through to people," said Campbell, who vowed to keep up her advocacy for organ donation.

Waiting for the new lungs was incredibly difficult, Campbell said, noting many people die before a suitable organ can be found.

Campbell said she was curious as to whose lungs she received, but said it would be up to the donor's family to decide if they wanted contact with her. Her fervent wish, she said, was that they know the extent of her gratitude.

"My hope is that someone will somehow let them know how thankful I am — that through their loss I have life," Campbell said.

Funding student groups. Financing laws must be followed, province says

Quebec's striking student organizations have been warned to respect provincial election laws if they want to make good on their promise to help defeat Jean Charest's Liberal government.

The student groups, which have received considerable funding from unions inside and outside the province, have been told they will need to abide by laws that set strict limits on contributions.

The warning from Quebec's elections watchdog was prompted by a recent public pledge from the major student associations to launch an offensive against the governing Liberals in the next election.

The Canadian Press reported this week that tens of thousands of dollars in donations have already been shipped to student activists from unions outside and inside the province and, as the conflict drags on, new financial contributions are pouring in. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Mass roundup of students triggers new attempt at talks

Montreal rally. 30th consecutive nightly march held since protest against tuition-fee increases began more than three months ago

Surreal scenes of mass arrests in various parts of Quebec, with over 650 people rounded up in different cities for a variety of reasons, have spurred a new attempt at resolving a dispute that has catapulted the province onto international news pages.

The provincial education minister said Thursday that she expected to hold a "very, very important" meeting with student groups, likely early next week, after having had positive discussions over the phone.

Restoring order in time for the tourist-filled festival season, which starts in only a few weeks, appears a monumental task given the events that unfolded in the wee hours.

Man confesses. After 33 years, mystery of first missing kid on a milk carton may at last have an ending

A New York City law-enforcement official said Thursday that a man has told police that he suffocated Etan Patz, the six-year-old boy whose disappearance on his way to school in 1979 helped give rise to the missing-children's movement that put youngsters' faces on milk cartons.

Pedro Hernandez was picked up late Wednesday in New Jersey, according to a law-enforcement official, and was being questioned Thursday by the Manhattan district attorney's office.

Hernandez worked at a convenience store in the neighbourhood where Patz lived, and moved to New Jersey shortly after the boy disappeared 33 years ago, according to a second law-enforcement official. He has been tied to the case in the past, and investigators recently received a phone call that tipped them off to him, the officials said.

Hernandez said he suffocated the boy, then put the body in a box, walked down the street and left the box in an alley, the first official said. No body or box has been recovered, and Hernandez has not been charged.

Investigators said they were still trying to confirm details of the man's story. The development came just before the Friday anniversary of Etan's disappearance, when detectives typically receive a landslide of hoaxes and false leads.

"Let me caution you that there's still a lot of investigating to do," Mayor Michael

Etan Patz, then six, has been missing since he left for school in 1979. STANLEY K. PATZ/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bloomberg said.

A woman who answered the door at Hernandez's Maple Shade, N.J., home confirmed he was in custody.

Norway massacre

If found sane, killer will not appeal verdict

The Norwegian right-wing extremist who has admitted to killing 77 people in a massacre last year said Thursday that he doesn't plan to appeal the verdict if an Oslo court deems him sane.

Two psychological examinations carried out before the 10-week trial started reached opposite conclusions on whether Anders Behring Breivik is psychotic — the key issue to be resolved during the trial, which began in mid-April.

Breivik has confessed to the July 22 massacre when he gunned down 69 people at a youth retreat on Utoya island after setting off a bomb in central Oslo that killed eight others. But he denies criminal guilt for the rampage, saying the victims had betrayed their country by embracing immigration.

The self-styled anti-Muslim crusader has strongly contested the psychological evaluation that deemed him insane for fear it would undermine his ideological reasoning.

"If I'm found sane, I have no grounds to appeal," the 33-year old suspect said at the end of Thursday's proceedings in Oslo.

Iran and six world powers to talk again in mid-June

Nuclear program. International Atomic Energy Agency to sign a deal with Iran soon to probe suspected weapons

Tough negotiations between Iran and world powers over Tehran's nuclear program ended Thursday with a plan to meet next month for another round of talks but agreement on little else.

The open channels between Iran and the six-nation bloc — the five permanent Security Council members plus Germany — are seen as the most hopeful chances of outreach between Washington and Tehran in years.

They also could push back threats of military action that have shaken oil markets and brought worries of triggering a wider Middle East conflict.

European Union foreign-policy chief Catherine Ashton said both sides agreed to continue the discussions on June 18 and 19 in Moscow in hopes of a breakthrough on international concerns about the Islamic Republic's ability to build atomic weapons.

The announcement capped two days of negotiations in Baghdad, where at times it appeared Tehran would withdraw from the talks.

Meanwhile, Yukiya Amano, director general of the International Atomic Energy Agency, says he has reached a deal with Iran on probing suspected work on nuclear weapons. The agreement will be signed soon.

Israeli leaders have been critical of the talks, claiming it allows Iran to buy time and drive a wedge between Washington and Jerusalem.

On Wednesday, Israeli Defence Minister Ehud Barak said even possible moves by Iran to open its nuclear facilities to inspection don't rule out a military strike.

New EI rules take aim at frequent users

Unemployment.

StatsCan reported this week there were about 237,000 unfilled jobs in February

Ottawa is tightening employment-insurance eligibility with new rules that hit repeat claimants hardest, but will force all on the system to accept lower-paying jobs.

The government says it will put strict definitions on what constitutes "suitable employment" and what the unemployed must do to find a job in order to get off EI.

The new rules are expected to be in effect early in 2013.

Human Resources Minister Diane Finley said the intent of changes is to get Canadians off EI and on to jobs for which they are qualified.

"These changes are not about forcing people to accept work outside their own area nor about taking jobs for which they are not suited."

But NDP critic Peggy Nash

Human Resources Minister Diane Finley announces changes to employment insurance in Ottawa on Thursday.

ADRIAN WYLD/THE CANADIAN PRESS

accused the government of blaming the unemployed for the poor economy.

"What we heard today is the minister scapegoating unemployed Canadians ... that they are not trying hard enough to find work," she said, pointing out that currently only 40 per cent of the unemployed are receiving benefits.

The changes create three categories of unemployment with a sliding scale of expectations for jobs people must accept — depending on how often they have collected benefits in the past, and the length they are currently on EI.

Long-tenured workers, mostly employed over the past 10 years, can refuse a job outside their usual occupation that doesn't pay at least 90 per cent of their previous hourly wage.

However, even this category of worker must lower expectations after 18 weeks on the system and accept any "similar occupation" within the industry that pays at least 80 per cent of their previous scale.

Frequent EI claimants, who have been on the system at least three times for a total of 60 weeks over the past five years, will be expected to take a similar job that pays at least 80 per cent of their previous wage rate. After six weeks, claimants will have to take any job for which they are qualified, even if it is not in the same field, at 70 per cent of the previous pay.

"Occasional claimants" must accept work paying at least 90 per cent of their previous scale in the first six weeks, 80 per cent in the next 12 weeks and 70 per cent after 18 weeks on benefits. The majority of claimants — 58 per cent — fall in this "occasional" category, Finley said.

Canadians can withstand housing downturn: DBRS

Credit-rating agency DBRS said Thursday that average Canadian households can withstand a catastrophic drop in home prices, but warned that a rise in unemployment would be a greater concern.

The agency said a 40 per cent drop in prices or rising interest rates would put pressure on Canadian households, but not have a large impact on mortgage defaults.

"However, a combination of higher interest rates, lower property values and a drastic increase in unemployment would be of great concern as mortgage defaults are closely related to employment and individual family situations," DBRS said in a report.

'Three D's'

"Households (are) vulnerable to cash-flow shock and credit problems from the occurrence of any of the three 'D's' — disability, divorce and dismissal."

DBRS in a report

"If unemployment spikes, many financially stretched households will be forced to sell their homes, putting greater downward pressure on house prices and turning many people into both house poor and cash poor."

The report comes amid continuing warnings from Bank of Canada governor Mark Carney and federal Finance Minister Jim Flaherty that higher interest rates are just a matter of time and Canadians need to ensure they don't get in over their heads with loans and mortgages.

DBRS said that faster debt accumulation relative to the economy as a whole or average household income have driven up both home prices and borrowing.

The result has been reduced housing affordability, with pressure on day-to-day cash flow for average Canadian households, leaving them little room to deal with unexpected expenses.

One (and possibly the only) reason to see MIB3: Josh Brolin's Tommy Lee Jones impression. HANDOUT

Third time's not the charm

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

MIB3. Latest alien instalment from Will Smith falls flat despite a scarily good Tommy Lee Jones impression from Josh Brolin

Richard: Mark, I was six when Apollo 11 happened and was incredibly bored by the whole thing. I couldn't understand why the shows I liked were being preempted for moon launch coverage. The Cape Canaveral takeoff plays a big part in MIB3 and I felt like I was six again. Not filled with wonder but wishing I was watching something else. The movie has its moments, but by and large didn't work for me. You?

Mark: The movie was uneven to say the least. I tend to like time travel plots and I enjoy anything set in the '60s but there was a lot of dead space and repetition. But I was impressed with the art direction and Josh Brolin's scarily accurate Tommy Lee Jones impression.

RC: If this acting thing doesn't work out for Brolin he does have a future as a Tommy Lee Jones impersonator. He could do weddings and Bar Mitzvahs and make a fortune. He's that good. But I felt that despite a good bad guy, some cool creatures and Brolin, the movie didn't have the charm or the energy of the first two movies. It reminded me of another effects laden Will Smith movie — Wild Wild West.

MB: And I thought Will Smith really walked through this one as did Tommy Lee Jones. But the actor who

Synopsis

As the third instalment opens, Boris the Animal — a notorious intergalactic serial killer — is forty years into a life sentence. He's locked away in the only place that will hold him, a super high security prison on the moon. After a daring escape he plans a full scale invasion of earth, but first he wants revenge on the man who put him in jail, MIB agent K (Tommy Lee Jones). The only way to thwart Boris's evil plan is for Agent J (Will Smith) to go back in time to 1969 and stop Boris.

stole the show for me was Michael Stuhlbarg who plays the autistic cosmic seer Griffin. A completely original performance of a completely original character. And Bill Hader's take on Andy Warhol made me laugh.

RC: Absolutely. Both are bright spots. I also enjoyed Smith literally hurtling through time, the idea that Mick Jagger is an alien sent to the planet to breed with Earth women and the battle in the Chinese restaurant. All cool moments, but the magic of the first film is gone — even the fun stuff in this film seems to evaporate as soon the next scene starts — and don't even get me started about the ending.

MB: Even the film's tone has a stop/start feel to it. The movie isn't quite a comedy, not quite an action flick. The original got this mix just right, the sequel was close, but the third time is not the charm.

SCENE

Scene in brief

Efron's revealing role

Zac Efron says he felt uncomfortable filming his revealing role in The Paperboy — and that's the way he wanted it. The High School Musical actor moves into grown-up territory with the film by Precious director Lee Daniels, which is screening at the Cannes Film Festival. It's a swampy slice of Southern gothic set in the 1960s, with Efron as an aspiring writer helping his journalist brother (Matthew McConaughey) investigate a possible miscarriage of justice, and falling for Nicole Kidman's sultry femme fatale.

There isn't much redemption in watching a film like Chernobyl Diaries. Then again, there's not supposed to be. A gratuitous spectacle set at the now-abandoned site of the world's worst nuclear disaster, a group of ill-equipped tourists get stranded only to discover they're not alone. Oren Peli's (Paranormal Activity) script isn't wholly original, but mere suggestion and shaky cinematography will likely be enough to sell many tickets.

Summer music festival season is finally here. Instead of being exposed to one or two bands every other week or so like an entry-level fan, festivals give you a chance to squeeze in all of the bands you ever wanted to see (and plenty that you didn't) in one musical cram-session. Not all summer music festivals are created equal, however, so here are a few coming up south of the border that we think are worth schlepping all the way for.

Wakarusa

May 31-June 3, Ozark, Ark. wakarusa.com

Supersized festivals like this one are usually just as much for die-hard music fans as they are for tent and dirt enthusiasts, which has made this long-running music and camping festival in Arkansas such a hit. That and the eclectic lineups — this year the slate runs the gamut from heady electronic bro Pretty Lights, to neo-mod soul act Fitz and the Tans, to indie bearded Blitzen Trapper, who were probably going to be hanging around nearby in the woods anyway.

David Guetta

2 Electric Daisy Carnival

June 8-10, Las Vegas
electricdaisycarnival.com

For almost 15 years this has been one of the biggest electronic music festivals in the U.S.. Now that EDC is bigger than ever, it makes sense that the festival would expand exponentially too. Big names like Avicii, Tiesto, Afrojack and David Guetta headline.

All Good Festival

July 19-22, Thornville, Ohio, allgoodfestival.com

Old people like music too, and while they may not do as many drugs as they used to, sometimes it's nice to go back and relive the glory days, if only for a weekend. Phil Lesh & Friends, The Flaming Lips, Bob Weir and Bruce Hornsby with Branford Marsalis, The Allman Brothers Band and your dad will all be there.

The Flaming Lips

3

Bonnaroo

June 7-10, Manchester, Tenn., bonnaroo.com

In the past decade, Bonnaroo has become the ideal by which all other fests are judged, and a great example of what happens when you realize, whoops, you've become super popular and need to book more than just jam bands. This year the likes of Skrillex, Radiohead, Mogwai, Das Racist, GZA, Santigold, The Roots and Foster the People give the nation's hipsters a really confusing idea of what Tennessee is actually like.

Pitchfork Music Festival

July 13-15, Chicago

Lollapalooza

Aug. 3-5, Chicago

pitchfork.com/festivals/chicago/2012
lollapalooza.com

The old marketing brand returns with a lineup that reads like the ghosts of Lollapalooza past (Red Hot Chili Peppers, At the Drive-In), present (Black Keys, Florence + the Machine) and future (Twin Shadow, SBTRKT). The stacked bill almost seems more Pitch-forkian than the actual Pitchfork fest going on a couple weeks earlier featuring Grimes, Clams Casino, Sleigh Bells and Beach House.

Black Keys

Kelly Clarkson comes full circle

TV. Former American Idol winner now takes on the role of helping contestants in new series Duets

Kelly Clarkson says judging someone a la American Idol isn't her style and she loves that she can "walk the walk and not just 'talk the talk'" as one of the stars of the new ABC series Duets.

The singing competition series — which started Thursday and also airs on Global in Canada — will see Clarkson and fellow recording artists John Legend, Robin Thicke, and Sugarland's Jennifer Nettles performing onstage each week with their hand-picked Duets partners.

The winning partner will receive a recording contract with Hollywood Records.

"In complete honesty, on the most cheesy note possible, that's a lot of the reason why I chose to do the show, (because) whenever I was on Idol I did not have anyone helping," Clarkson, who won American Idol's inaugural season in 2002, said this week in a conference call with reporters.

"It was a brand-new show from the U.K. and nobody had really worked in the U.S. much and nobody really knew what they were doing. The show blew up around the Top 4, so I call it Ghetto Idol. It was the ghetto season: we didn't have anything they have now, and not only that, we couldn't get songs cleared, we couldn't have people that were really helping us as contestants. It was more for the show.

"So I love the fact that 10 years later I get to actually be that person for two people that I get to hand-pick and I get to actually help."

The so-called Duets "superstars" searched the U.S. for two of their own amateur singing partners for the series.

Clarkson, a two-time Grammy Award winner who's said to be the most successful Idol contestant around the world, looked for talent in Nashville and San Diego.

Clarkson said she found four potential duets partners but was only allowed to bring two to the series.

Letting two of them go made her want "to crawl into a hole," said 30-year-old Texas native.

"I would bawl. Like, I didn't handle it well. I didn't like telling people, 'Oh man, you didn't quite make it.'"

Master of her 'Make-Believe'

Santigold. When it comes to spreading positivity, this pop princess is totally unstoppable

scene@metronews.ca

Santigold became cemented into the lore of summer music three years ago. It all started when an eccentric guy dancing alone on a patch of grass far away from the stage at the Sasquatch Music Festival attracted hundreds of ecstatic revelers to join him, and eventually 5.9 million viewers on YouTube. All the while, singer Santi White was chanting a triumphant chorus of "I've got to be unstoppable."

"That was amazing," says White, reflecting back on the moment. "When we were on-stage, we noticed something far off in the distance and just saw this huge part of the crowd running across the field, and I remember afterward we were like, 'Did you see that? What happened?' And then when somebody sent it to me on YouTube I couldn't believe it. I've heard that the video has been used in leadership classes."

This moment is a good metaphor for everything that the music of Santigold represents. The songs are playful and fun, but they are firmly rooted in the notion of spreading positivity.

Releasing a self-titled debut in 2009, Santigold toured for two years and built a loyal following, so that when she released her sophomore album, Master of My Make-Believe earlier this month, the response was not entirely unlike the dancers running across the field to join in on the fun.

"It's great as an artist, starting out, to just spend some time building a fan base," she says. "I was really grateful that the demand was there for so long."

The live show is equally deserving of that demand, with its cross of high energy and

Quoted

"They're kind of like mantra songs for me, where you just need to be like, 'I'm the best!' especially when you're working on a new record, and you really don't feel like that... it's nice to be able to sing songs like that to make you feel good." Santigold high camp. Robotic backup singers flank White and occasionally bust into funny, old-school dance moves. Backup musicians wear rubber flat-top wigs, making them look like comic book versions of ancient Egyptians. Oh, and there's also a two-person horsey that comes out to dance.

"I just closed my eyes one day and I saw lassos and a horse, and I was like, 'We need lassos and a horse!' and everybody looked at me like I was crazy," she says of the eureka moment. "And then me and my girls went online and we found this cool horse outfit and we were like, 'That's the one!' I wanted it to be theatrical in a very do-it-yourself sort of way, like a high school play."

Master of My Make-Believe opens in a call to arms, with the song, GO! against electronic pulses and jungle drums, Santi White sings about how haters have tried to steal her power away, "but they couldn't take it."

"There's truth to all of these songs," she says, "and this one is just watching people in the super mainstream pick and choose and take bits of what's going on in the underground. ... Also, that song is kind of like a tongue-in-cheek fun song. They're kind of like mantra songs for me, where you just need to be like, 'I'm the best!' Especially when you're working on a new record, and you really don't feel like that."

"There's just times when you don't feel like that, and it's nice to be able to sing songs like that to make yourself feel good."

Choice of Weapon

The Cult Return. Again.

scene@metronews.ca

Ian Astbury is home — sort of. Reclining in a chair at the back of an appropriately dark downtown club, the singer of the Cult is happy to be back in Ontario where he spent his early years in Hamilton and later years in Toronto.

Now living in LA, he's excitedly talking about the new Cult album, Choice of Weapon, part of which was produced by Canadian Bob Rock.

This reunion seems to be sticking.

(Ruefully) Reunion (laughs). We've been 'reconvening' for seven years. The first one, '95 through '99, I needed time. I needed to walk away. In '99 we signed to Warner Brothers and the industry just went 'kablooie'. It was a difficult time to come back. Then the Doors thing (a semi Doors reunion with Ian as singer) came along. Then I just started popping around doing stuff. There was Trent Reznor. We were potentially working on a group together...

Wait, wait! What potential group with Trent Reznor?

We were kind of toying with the idea of doing something at one point. He was sniffing around. I think he was looking for what his next move was going to be. I'd love to work with Trent at some point, but we'll see.

You've had the same rhythm section in the Cult for a while.

The Cult has actually had several careers within our 31 years. We fought to keep this (incarnation) together.

This is also the most prolific version of the Cult with albums, EPs, reissues all coming over the last couple of years.

I think we just got confident in terms of not judging (the material) before it came out. I'm the worst critic. I criticize it before it's even been written. Working with the Doors was part of this new confidence.

How did the Super Bowl commercial (the mash-up featuring Flo Rida and She Sells Sanctuary) come about?

Budweiser approached us. It's pitched to us as 150 million viewers. We thought this was an amazing opportunity to put the band's name out there. It actually helped me pay back my publishing deal. I signed the worst deals in the '80s. They're still playing it, too.

Where and when your band's brand comes up in the culture, you don't get to choose.

Choice of Weapon is out now.

Bar wants us to feel sorry for her

It's hard out there for a supermodel. Bar Refaeli, who previously dated Leonardo DiCaprio, insists that despite her famous beauty, she gets very little male attention.

"Let's put it out there: no one hits on me. No one flirts with me. It's very sad, actually," Refaeli tells Conan O'Brien during an interview.

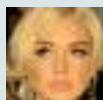

"A guy who comes up to me (directly) works. I hope that will happen every now and again."

But if you plan on approaching Refaeli, be sure you've been to the dentist: "I want him to be sweet and kind with good values and morals," she says of what she looks for in a guy.

"But the first thing I notice is his teeth. I have a fetish. He has to have a great smile and really white, bright teeth."

Brad Pitt's pre-bachelor party?

MONICA WEYMOUTH
scene@metronews.ca

Although he insists there's no date set for his wedding to Angelina Jolie, Brad Pitt has been treating the Cannes Film Festival like a bit of a bachelor party.

At a black-tie after-party for his new film Killing Them Softly, the actor partied with everyone from Kylie Minogue to P.Diddy — who stopped by for a congratulatory drink before getting back to his yacht — and put back some expensive booze with Jolie nowhere in sight.

"With Brad's impending wedding it almost had the feel of a sophisticated pre-bachelor party, with bottles of $390 Johnnie Walker whisky and plenty of cigars," a guest, who we assume didn't arrive by yacht, tells Us Weekly.

"It was definitely a night for Brad to remember." You'd think so. But then again, swanky whiskey with Diddy on the French Riviera might be Brad Pitt's equivalent of warm wine coolers with the cat.

J.Lo and her boyfriend to get reality show: Report

While rumours swirl that Jennifer Lopez won't return as a judge on American Idol, she's just signed a deal with the Oxygen Network for a reality show, according to the New York Post.

But the show won't focus on Lopez, sources say. It will instead be about her boyfriend, Casper Smart, who was recently promoted to choreographer for Lopez's upcoming tour, as he "whips her other backup dancers into shape."

Lopez and Smart reportedly plan to keep the focus on their "professional relationship" on the show.

LIFE

Etiquette

Foot fault

After a spell of chilly weather, many are keen to unleash their bare feet as the temperatures climb, showing off their tootsies at restaurant patios while soaking up the rays.

But whether you're cruising solo or among a packed crowd, those in the business of good manners agree that feet on public seats, especially in places where we eat, is a faux pas.

"As soon as you get into public areas ... it's no longer yours. It belongs to everybody," said Suzanne Nourse, founder and owner of The Protocol School of Ottawa and co-author of The Power of Civility. "Etiquette to me, the true meaning of etiquette, it's not about the knife and fork: it's how we treat other people. And putting your feet up — where somebody else is going to sit down in a few minutes — is inappropriate."

I'm assuming with the ease of downloading, the idea of an age limit on viewing movies is for the most part out the window.

Back in my underage days, the mere thought of a movie being "Rated R" was a call to arms. We had to try to see it — even if it meant risking being kicked out of the movie theatre.

I'm proud to say the first restricted flick I successfully attended was Saturday Night Fever. Not only was it a great film, it had a soundtrack that spoke of the times.

Hearing that Robin Gibb passed away last weekend got me watching it again (yes, I own it now) and thinking of when all the Bee Gees were Stayin' Alive.

With Robin gone to the big disco in the sky I plan on raising a toast to his talent tonight with a glass of the California's 2010 Big House Red ($10.95 - $12.99).

Combining an insane blend of more than a dozen grapes, it's a fruit bomb that slaps the palate with a burst of blackberry/strawberry fruit and just a touch of spice that easily harmonizes with casual dining in between spins on the dance floor.

Straight-Up Deviled Eggs. Elizabeth Karmel shares her classic recipe for a fave

Ingredients

Start to finish: 30 minutes
(plus overnight chilling)

- 1 dozen large eggs
- 1/3 cup mayonnaise
- 4 tbsp unsalted butter, softened
- 1/4 cup strong Dijon mustard (such as Amora or Maille)
- Zest of 1/2 lemon
- 1 tsp fresh lemon juice
- Pinch garlic powder
- 2 to 4 shakes hot sauce
- Salt
- Smoked paprika or minced fresh chives

When I think about summer, I think about deviled eggs. Beginning with Easter and going straight through September, just about every activity — from camping and cookouts to beach vacations — can be enhanced by a plate of deviled eggs.

It's really just a matter of swapping the garnish to fit the activity or mood.

If I am feeling down-homey, I add pimento cheese to my basic deviled egg mixture. If I want to spice it up, I add pureed chipotle. For the right occasion I'll even get a little fancy and top deviled eggs with caviar.

Still, no matter how good embellished deviled eggs are, my favourite remains what I call "straight-up deviled eggs." They are as advertised — classic and simple. One of the beauties of deviled eggs is how well they travel. That's why I call them party eggs.

1. Fill large bowl with cold water.

2. Place eggs in a large saucepan and cover with cold water. Bring to a boil, cover, then turn off the heat. Let the eggs sit for 15 minutes. Drain the eggs, then transfer them to the bowl of cold water. Let them sit for about 10 minutes, or until cool to the touch.

3. Carefully peel eggs, keeping the whites intact. Cut in half across the middle or lengthwise, depending on your desired final presentation. Use your fingers or a small spoon to gently scoop out the yolks into a medium bowl. Set the whites aside on a platter or deviled egg plate, then cover and refrigerate.

4. Use a fork to mash the yolks until all large pieces are broken up and smooth. Add the mayonnaise, butter, mustard, lemon zest and juice, garlic powder and hot sauce. Stir well. Taste and season with salt. Transfer the mixture to a pastry bag or plastic zip-close bag and refrigerate overnight.

5. Just before serving, snip off the tip of the piping bag (or one of the bottom corners of a zip-close bag) and squeeze the deviled egg mixture into the egg whites. Alternatively, you can use a small spoon to fill the egg white "boats" with the yolk mixture, but the presentation is less attractive. Sprinkle the eggs with smoked paprika for classic eggs, or chives for a fancier version. Serve chilled. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS/ ELIZABETH KARMELE (GRILLING AND SOUTHERN FOODS EXPERT AND EXECUTIVE CHEF AT HILL COUNTRY BARBECUE MARKET RESTAURANTS IN NEW YORK AND WASHINGTON, AS WELL AS HILL COUNTRY CHICKEN IN NEW YORK).

Rodriguez retains lead over Hesjedal

Andrea Guardini edged out favourite Mark Cavendish in a bunch sprint to win the 18th stage of the Giro d'Italia on Thursday as Joaquin Rodriguez kept his grip on the overall lead.

Guardini, who finished last in the previous stage, timed his sprint to perfection to win in three hours 52 seconds. Roberto Ferrari was third.

It is the fifth victory for an Italian rider this year, equalling the country's 1974 record.

Rodriguez maintained his 30-second lead over Victoria's Ryder Hesjedal in the overall standings after Hesjedal finished 67th.

Bryant, a first-team pick for the seventh straight season, joined Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Elgin Baylor, Bob Cousy, Michael Jordan, Bob Pettit, and Jerry West with 10 selections to the first team. Karl Malone is the leader with 11.

Also named to the team are Kevin Durant, Chris Paul and Dwight Howard.

No looking back for Rangers in Game 6

NHL. Both teams are downplaying memories of Messier's guarantee in '94

Eighteen years ago, Mark Messier set the stage for one of sports' most dramatic moments.

On the eve of the New York Rangers' must-win Game 6 against the Devils in New Jersey in the 1994 Eastern Conference final, Messier guaranteed his team would force a deciding contest back at Madison Square Garden.

The Rangers not only won, Messier backed up his boast with a hat trick.

Fast forward to now. The teams once more head to a Game 6, in New Jersey, with the Rangers — again the East's top team — down 3-2, needing a win to stay alive.

That's where the similarity ends.

This time, New York really isn't the star-laden team that ended the franchise's half-century Stanley Cup drought back in 1994.

The Devils have shown repeatedly in this best-of-seven series they are just as good as their longtime, cross-river rivals. The only game the Rangers dominated was Game 5, and the Devils won 5-3.

Devils goaltender Martin Brodeur is the only player remaining from the memorable 1994 series. Now 40, he was the difference on Wednesday night in New York.

"I don't see anything that

Mark Messier celebrates a goal against the Vancouver Canucks in Game 7 of the Stanley Cup final in 1994 in New York. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS is similar," Brodeur said Thursday in a conference call. "I know if you guys look at it, it looks the same. But it's different teams and a different way of playing the game. That's 18 years ago. That's a long time.

I know I'm feeling a lot different. I'm feeling a lot more appreciative of what's going on."

Rangers coach John Tortorella downplayed the comparison, saying his players were not even thinking about it.

"Not to disrespect what happened," he said, "but that has nothing to do with how we're preparing."

The Devils are in position to advance to their first Stanley Cup final since 2003 and a meeting with the Los Angeles Kings, starting next week. All they have to do is win on either Friday here or Sunday in New York, where they have already won two of three.

"I don't think we're looking at two chances," said New Jersey forward Dainius Zubrus.

"It brings back all the memories," the Hall of Famer said after the Sixers forced the first seventh game between the old rivals since he teamed with Andrew Toney to lead Philadelphia past Boston and into the 1982 NBA finals. "It seemed like it always came down to them.... Coming out of the East, (it) was always Boston or Philly."

Jrue Holiday scored 20 points and Elton Brand had 13 points and 10 rebounds on Wednesday night to lead the 76ers to an 82-75 victory over the Celtics that left the Eastern Conference semifinals tied 3-3. Both teams took the day off on

Roots of a rivalry

The Sixers and Celtics met 12 times in the playoffs from 1953-69 and five more from 1977-85, fomenting an animosity that stretched from Bob Cousy and the Syracuse Nationals through Bill Russell and Wilt Chamberlain and into the era of Dr. J and Boston's original Big Three of Kevin McHale, Robert Parish and Larry Bird.

"That's all we wanted was to win ... and give ourselves a chance to go into Boston and see what happens on Saturday in Game 7," Sixers coach Doug Collins said after his team stayed alive. ## Perjury trial. David Segui says McNamee told him about Clemens' 'darts'

David Segui remembered "darts" but not dates.

The former major leaguer testified for the prosecution Thursday in the Roger Clemens perjury trial, and he would have made a much better witness if he kept a better mental calendar. As it was, Segui was able to recall one specific moment that helped the government's case: A telephone conversation he says he had with Clemens' strength coach 11 years ago.

"He mentioned that he had kept darts to get his wife off his back," Segui said.

Segui echoed the testimony of the six-week-old trial's key witness. Brian McNamee told the jury last week that he saved a needle and other materials from an alleged steroids injection of Clemens in 2001. McNamee testified he was trying to allay his wife's fears he would take all the blame if the drug use was discovered.

"He mentioned that the relationship between Brian and Roger had put stress on his married life," said Segui, recalling other parts of the conversation.

Segui, who has acknowledged using performance-enhancing drugs during his 15-year baseball career with seven teams, wasn't allowed to say that "darts" means "needles." The judge ruled that the jurors will have to make that assumption themselves — unless McNamee were to return to the stand to explain.

Segui, who became friends with McNamee when they met in Toronto during the 1999 season, also wasn't allowed to relate a similar "darts" conversation because he couldn't remember when it happened.

"I'm not good with dates. I don't log my life," said Segui, who also couldn't remember at what point during the '99 season he was traded from Seattle to Toronto.

Clemens is charged with lying to Congress in 2008 when he denied using steroids and human growth hormone. McNamee says he injected Clemens with both substances and saved some of the waste from the 2001 injection in a beer can.

Thames running out of chances in Toronto

ethan.rotberg@metronews.ca

Eric Thames, the person, is nothing like Edwin Encarnacion.

The always-grinning Thames emits an aura of exuberance. His post-game interviews give off a casual air as though he's conversing with his Pepperdine University roommate. His Twitter is filled with book recommendations and GarageBand music creations. His captivating facial hair is always a talking point.

Encarnacion, on the other hand — the former whipping boy turned offensive Goliath — crushes home runs with a solemn demeanor. If not for the accompanying bat flip, you could be fooled into thinking "EE" was heartbroken by the round-tripper.

But what ties them together is the early part of their Blue Jays careers.

Both showed pop — Encarnacion had 21 home runs in 96 games in 2010, while Thames had 12 home runs in 95 games last year. When they each struggled with the bat to begin their second campaigns in Toronto, it was a concern. But it was their defensive play that really made them liabilities.

Encarnacion made three errors in the first two games in 2011. Thames, according to UZR — a metric that assigns a run value to a player's defence — is the fourth-worst defensive outfielder in the majors this season.

For Encarnacion, all it took was a move to DH last year and his hitting quickly improved. His shortcomings at third base were affecting the rest of his game — and it showed.

It's trickier for Thames. With Encarnacion firmly anchored at DH, Thames will have to improve his defence if he wants fans — and the manager — to look past a prolonged offensive slump.

After beating out Travis Snider for the left-field job in spring training, Thames' window to prove he belongs is shrinking.

Snider, currently nursing a sore wrist in Triple-A Las Vegas, is one red-eye flight away.

NHL. London native makes good in post-season after rough start to 2011-12 with Kings Drew Doughty began this season holding out for a $56-million US contract from the Los Angeles Kings, demanding and getting an enormous sum for a kid with more potential than accomplishments.

Doughty then started the season with every dollar seemingly stacked on his shoulders, weighing him down.

The 22-year-old has shaken off that burden in the post-season, leading his favourite team since his Ontario boyhood into just its second trip to the Stanley Cup final. The Canadian

Quoted

"Most guys spend a few years in the minors and come up, and he's been in the spotlight ever since he's been here. He has handled it pretty well."

Dustin Brown, Kings captain

Olympic gold medallist just keeps getting better, producing a two-point performance in the Western Conference finals clincher at Phoenix on Tuesday.

Although Doughty is also skilled at deflecting praise, he's thrilled to be the player everybody has always thought he could become.

"I think I'm back to that guy that I know I can be,"

Doughty said. "I'm loving everything about it, and I want to continue to be that guy. I think in order for us to win the Stanley Cup, I have to be that best defenceman on the ice every night, and I'm going to make sure I'm doing that."

Doughty has been the best defenceman on the NHL's best playoff team, scoring 10 points in 14 games and averaging nearly 26 minutes of ice time. He's doing it all while playing against every opponent's top offensive players with his partner, veteran Rob Scuderi.

"You have to be well-rounded in all areas and not just a specialist," said Kings coach Darryl Sutter, a major factor in Doughty's leap forward. "You have to be able to see yourself in all those situations, and when he does that, he's pretty good." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Coyotes come to terms with disappointing end

The end of the season hit the Phoenix Coyotes particularly hard.

After scratching deeper into the playoffs than ever before, the Coyotes were struck by the did-that-just-happen shock of an overtime goal that ended Game 5 of the Western Conference finals.

On the ice and in the locker-room, they were bitter, angry, frustrated; at the officiating, the Kings, themselves.

Two days later, the disappointment was still there, only tempered by the sense of accomplishment.

A first division title, three games from the Stanley Cup finals, a prospective owner in waiting — it's hard to stay mad long after what was easily the best season in franchise history.

"You're going 100 mph and it stops, so that's the frustrating part," Coyotes coach Dave Tippett said. "But as days go by, I think we're going to recognize that this was a pretty special group."

Horoscope

♈ Aries | March 21 - April 20.

You have a way with words and you must use them today to get what it is that you need.

♉ Taurus | April 21 - May 21. If you get the chance to travel today, maybe to some place you have not been in a while, take it, no matter what responsibilities you have.

♊ Gemini | May 22 - June 20.

You need to get out into the world and make sure important people know who you are.

♋ Cancer | June 21 - July 22. Let other people worry about the small stuff while you focus on the future and the many wonderful things it has to offer you.

♌ Leo | July 23 - Aug. 22. You'll come to a decision concerning your next big move. Whatever you decide, you must go for it 100 per cent.

♍ Virgo | Aug. 23 - Sept. 22. You're now in the perfect position to leave your mark on the world. Make sure it's a positive one.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23 - Oct. 22. Old must give way to new sooner or later, and in your case it is most likely sooner. The planets indicate it is time to stop holding on to the past.

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23 - Nov. 21. Nothing in life is worth getting worked up about — right? Wrong! You're a Scorpio and that means you are passionate by nature.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22 - Dec. 21.

The planets warn you are being too hard on yourself. Whatever mistake you made, forgive yourself.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22 - Jan. 20. Make an effort to find out why a certain person is behaving in a certain way. They're human, just like you.

♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21 - Feb. 18. You'll have to make a choice of some sort today and it's very much a choice between future and past.

♓ Pisces | Feb. 19 - March 20. Try to read the signals today. Try to predict what other people are going to do before they actually do it. It's not that hard.
